WRITE TO THE SOLDIERS.

"Tell the women of America to write letters to their men at the front—and then more letters. It's home letters that hold the front-line trenches."

This is the message brought back to America by Capt. H. H.
Pearson, the first Canadian to go to France after war was declared and the first to see service with Kitchener's army. Later he was wounded when a bomb struck the Young Men's Christian Association headquarters at at Beigian Poperinghe, of which he was in charge. He has seen hundreds of men go over the top and a lesser number come back again. He has been over the top and come back again. Both from experience and from observation, he knows what it is that puts heart into soldiers when they stand near the edge of No-Man's Land, with the shells bursting around them.

"Write to them," he urges.
"If you have a relative or friend at the front, write to him, and do it often. Letters from strangers don't count, of course, but the others—no one can say how much they matter. Why do you suppose that the Young Men's Christian Association spends thousands of dollars every month for paper and ink? It isn't so much because we are thinking of the home folks; they must look out for themselves in time of war. We want those letters written so that the mothers and the sisters and the wives and the sweethearts back home may answer them as soon as possible.
It's the answer we are interested in, because we know how those letters in the familiar hand writing are going to help win the battle."

Americans will never see the most terrible part of the war, Captain Pearson declares.

"The most terrible part of the war was that first winter of it, the end of 1914, and the beginning of 1915," he said. "During that first winter of the war, when the enemy marched against us with machine guns and all the modern instruments of warfare, and we had no guns, no ammunition, nothing but sheer will to go on, it was really the letters from home that held the lines for us. We did it because the home folks expected us to do it and said so in their letters. You may say that this is all sentiment. Well, this is a war of sentiment. It's sentiment that took us over there to fight, and it is sentiment that is taking you Americans. Anyhow soldiers are like that. I've known some of them that haven't gotten a word from home in all the time they have been gone, more than three years now. It may have been because their women were slackers, and it may have been because their letters had gone astray. They were a very different lot, as a rule, from the chaps who got letters from home regularly, and they went into the fight with a different spirit.

Sometimes a boy who hadn't heard from home for two years or more would get a letter at last, a lot of them in a bunch.
You ought to have seen his face when he saw his name on the envelop and knew that those letters were for him. You ought to have seen how many times he got those letters out and reread them when he thought no one was looking. You ought to have seen the vim with which he went into the next battle."

MINISTER'S DAUGHTER REJOICES OVER VIN HEPATICA

Had Little Hope of Ever Getting Relief Until The Famous Vin Hepatica Prescription Was Recommended to Her—Takes it and Gets Well—Father Also Testifies.

Mrs. Robbin Jones, of Winchester, Tenn., daughter of the well-known evangelist, E. L.
Cambron, says this regarding she wonderful relief she obtained from the use of Vin Hepatica:

"I had suffered almost all my life from stomach trouble. I could eat but few things without suffering agony. I had little hope of ever getting well. My food would sour, could scarcely rest any and was awfully nervous, but now I am rejoiced to say that I have at last found relief.

"I began taking Vin Hepatica about four weeks ago, and I have gained several pounds. I eat lots of things I haven't been able to eat for years, and without experiencing any trouble afterwards. Vin Hepatica is a great medicine."

Right underneath her statement comes the following from her father, E. L. Cambron, the well-known evangelist:

"I think it strange," said he,
"that we have not been able to find a medicine that would do the work Vin Hepatica has done.
Our daughters condition was something terrible. My wife and I blamed ourselves, thinking we had wrecked her life by giving her so much strong medicine while she was a child. Now we rejoice over the relief she has gotten from this wonderful Vin Hepatica prescription. She is an entirely different person, and we owe our thanks to her friend who induced her to try this wonderful remedy."

We invite you to come into our store, and try this great Vin Hepatica prescription on our recommendation.—L. B. Anderson, Gainesboro, Tenn.
